COMMON QUESTIONS

Can I contribute to both a Traditional and a Roth IRA?

Yes, you can make contributions to both IRAs in the same year provided the combined total contribution doesn't exceed the limit for the year, including any catch-up contributions.

Can I contribute to an IRA if I'm already contributing to a work IRA plan?

Yes, you can open a Traditional or Roth IRA even if you have an employee-sponsored retirement plan. Consider discussing this option with your tax advisor first.

What are "catch-up" contributions?

Investors age 50 and over may be able to contribute additional funds over the standard limit, which is a way to boost savings when retirement is around the corner. Consult your tax advisor.

What is the annual contribution limit for an IRA?

Consult your tax advisor for your annual contribution limit.

Am I allowed to withdraw the money prior to retirement?

Traditional and Roth IRA CDs have early withdrawal penalties that depend on the specific account terms. Also, withdrawals made before 5 years and before the age of 59½ may be subject to an additional IRS penalty.

At what age can I take distributions?

For a Traditional IRA, you must begin to take your required minimum distributions by April 1st of the year after you become 72 years old (73 if you reach age 72 after December 31, 2022). A Roth IRA has no distribution requirements while you're alive, but beneficiaries will be subject to distribution rules after you pass.

When is my Traditional or Roth IRA CD considered abandoned?

It will be considered abandoned if you do not communicate with us about your account for five years after the original maturity date, even if your account renews automatically.

Will I be able to immediately view my account on my Online Banking profile?

Yes. If you don't see the account, contact Customer Banking via secure message in Online Banking or call (808) 627-6900 or toll-free (800) 272-2566.

For additional information, consult your tax advisor.
